Teaching, service, and the scholarly and creative activity of our faculty showcases the vibrancy of a liberal arts college. In the same way that our faculty members teach our students to produce knowledge and shape conversations, they lead by example in the process as well. It gives me great pleasure to stand in proud support of the faculty achievements that you will read about in this publication.

With passion for their students and their disciplines, the faculty members recognized this year delve into research, creative writing, fellowships, and grants that invigorate conversations on campus and beyond. Please join me in celebrating the achievements of our faculty, for all that they contribute to our students’ experiences and our University’s academic mission.

Mark McCoy

DePauw has a long and sustained tradition of faculty development which has fostered exploration, innovation, and the completion of many transformative projects. In these pages you will find a listing of Faculty Fellowships, many of which will culminate years later in the completion of a book or the awarding of a major grant. Our dynamic of faculty development is one of renewal and discovery, and our students and colleagues (both on and off-campus) benefit from the many projects and conversations begun through its support. Collaborations with students, or with peers at other institutions, bespeak the intellectual generosity of DePauw faculty members in their search for and shaping of knowledge.

Anne F. Harris
